

Unable to publish form

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/FrontPage/microsoft.public.frontpage.extensions.windowsnt/2005-02/0299.html>

From: LG (LG_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/25/05

Date: Fri, 25 Feb 2005 07:21:06 -0800

nI just had my server enable FrontPage extensions so that I can put a form on my web site. The web site has not been moved. Until now, I have been using FrontPage 2003 to publish through FTP (third button down when you click on web site properties). Now I want to "publish" using the first button down (FrontPage or Sharepoint services) – correct?? When I click on that button, the box below wants a remote web site location and automatically puts http:// in the box for me to fill in. My question is: what exactly do I type in the box? I have tried websitename.com, www.websitename.com, plus adding a /mydirectry at the end and just about every variation between. It brings up the next screen asking for my user and password and when I fill in those (I was given a new password for the new situation), it asks for them again, i.e., it won't work. Where am I going wrong? I really don't know about anything going on in the background of FrontPage, so please don't get too technical :-) Thanks