

Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/FrontPage/microsoft.public.frontpage.extensions.windowsnt/2005-06/msg00010>

---

- From: "Tom Pepper Willett" <tomdpepper@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 2 Jun 2005 07:11:35 -0500
-

There is only one version of IIS available for Win2K Pro, the one that comes with it.

--

===

Tom "Pepper" Willett
Microsoft MVP – FrontPage

----

About FrontPage 2003:

<http://office.microsoft.com/home/office.aspx?assetid=FX01085802>

===

"John Smith" <someone@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:OBkb\$40ZFHA.3168@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

| Thank you. I understand. I ran the test to open 127.0.0.1 and get "page
| cannot be displayed" and for sure don't have a Web server running. I
| access

| my local web copies as file names.

|

| I will install the limited IIS server to get the functionality that is
| missing during development. I wouldn't be surprised but what the IIS got
| deleted somewhere in my many install/uninstall cycles of stuff.

|

| I should probably check to see if there is a newer version of IIS than the
| one that comes on the original Win2K install CD unless you know this and
| can

| point me in the right direction.

|

| Thank you very much again.

|

| "Ronx" <ronx917@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:OuHhj5zZFHA.3096@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

| > Windows 2000 Pro comes with a limited version of IIS5.0 The
| > limitation is the number of virtual servers it will support (=1), and
| > the number of simultaneous connections (=10).

| > AFAIK, the Server extensions cannot be installed unless IIS is
| > installed – possibly IIS was removed after the extensions were
| > installed?

| >

| > Since FP2000, you can develop FrontPage webs on a PC without a web

Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?

|> server running without any problems. The only things you cannot do is
|> test components that require the extensions (hit counters, forms, etc)
|> or server side scripts (ASP, etc.).
|> To see if you have any web server installed and running, try to access
|> <http://localhost> or <http://127.0.0.1> in your browser. If you succeed,
|> there is a web server running (though which web server will not be
|> known).
|> You can also check in Control- Panel->Administration Tools->Services
|> Look for IIS Admin, and World Wide Web Publishing, which refer to IIS
|> running.
|>
|> When opening a web in FrontPage, how do you access it? Using a URL
|> like <http://webname> or a file location like c:/mywebs/webname? The
|> former method requires a web server with extensions, the latter does
|> not.
|> ---
|> Ron Symonds
|> Microsoft MVP (FrontPage)
|> Reply only to group – emails will be deleted unread.
|>
|> "John Smith" <someone@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
|> <news:%234nFMMuZFHA.1040@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
|>> Sorry, I'm lost. I look at this stuff so infrequently that it's hard
|>> to stay
|>> on top of it.
|>>
|>> I don't seem to have a Web server installed on my machine and I
|>> thought
|>> FrontPage wouldn't work well without that and the FrontPage
|>> extensions being
|>> installed.
|>>
|>> I have a Windows 2000 SP 3 machine with FrontPage 2000 on it. It's
|>> been
|>> there for years and everything seems to work okay until today I got
|>> in a
|>> panic over a server error message and tried to find the Web server
|>> running
|>> on my machine.
|>>
|>> I read that it is supposed to be a stripped down version of IIS, but
|>> when I
|>> check installed Windows components it's not installed. OTOH, under
|>> Administrative Tools there is a Server Extensions Manager and in it,
|>> FPMMC,
|>> I see a folder for FrontPage Server Extensions with a folder with my
|>> computer's name.
|>>
|>> I use simple components in FP like hit counters and included pages,
|>> I think
|>> they are called, and a guestbook and everything seems to work well

Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?

|>> as I
|>> develop. Of course, the Web server I publish to on the Internet has
|>> the
|>> server extensions installed.
|>>
|>> On my old Win98SE machine I could access the PWS from a local Web
|>> page and
|>> administer it. I think there was a little applet with an icon in the
|>> system
|>> tray as well. Nothing like that on this Win2K machine.
|>>
|>> So what gives, please? Am I not running a local Web server and if
|>> not, what
|>> am I missing out on?
|>>
|>>
|>>
|>
|>
|
|

---

• References:

- ◆ No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
    ◇ From: John Smith
- ◆ Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
    ◇ From: Ronx
- ◆ Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
    ◇ From: John Smith

- Prev by Date: Re: I want my discussion to appear on more than one line
- Next by Date: Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
- Previous by thread: Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
- Next by thread: Re: No IIS But Frontpage Fine?
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread