

Re: Server error: Thumbs.db.tmp

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/FrontPage/microsoft.public.frontpage.programming/2004-03/0158.html>

From: Steve Easton (admin_at_95isalive.com)

Date: 03/02/04

Date: Tue, 2 Mar 2004 16:54:07 -0500

Do a search using windows search for files named thumbs.db.
Delete any found "inside" your web. Then recalculate hyperlinks and publish.

--

Steve Easton

Microsoft MVP FrontPage

95isalive

This site is best viewed.....

.....with a computer

"Matthew" <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:586801c4006f5effaa80$a001280a@phx.gbl...

> If anyone has a clue, thought, experience, or suggestion
> here, please add your two cents (or more...)

>

> Dear Steve,

>

> Thank you for your insight. I tried that - and thirty > variations on the theme - to no avail.

>

> As I see it, there are three ways to approach the > solution. One is the right way, one is an easy way, and > the third is unthinkable, motivating my visit here for > the fifth time to resolve this specific issue.

>

> 3: Wipe out the entire web, and start over.

>

> 2: Adjust permissions on the Server (FPSE?).

>

> 1: On the destination Server, rename MyWeb as MyWeb2.

> Create a new folder and name it MyWeb. On the > destination Server, from MyWeb2 to MyWeb, copy & paste > _vti_script and _vti_txt. Go back to the source web, and > publish - creating new & virgin instances of all > ancillary files in the web through the publish automation > in FP.

>

> Well, I worried about finding the right solution for the > wrong reason, so any "Professional" help would certainly > serve well to put my mind at ease.

>

> If you recommend #3, I keell you!

>

> Love and literals,

>

Re: Server error: Thumbs.db.tmp

microsoft.public.frontpage.programming: Re: Server error: Thumbs.db.tmp

```
> Matthew
>
> =}
>
> *****
> Usually when FP references a file with a double file > extension ending in
> ..tmp it "thinks" that there is an unsaved file open.
> So, close FrontPage. Do a file search for files named
> *.tmp and delete all > found, do a file search for files named *.web and delete > all found.
> Clear your browser Temporary Internet and History files.
> Reopen FrontPage and then try.
>
> hth
>
> --
> Steve Easton
> Microsoft MVP FrontPage
> 95isalive
> This site is best viewed.....
> .....with a computer
>
> "Drew Carey Barrymore" > <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in > message news:17c501c3fbdd$a4c84b80$a301280a@phx.gbl...
> > "Server error: The server extensions were unable to > > access the file ".Thumbs.db.tmp". Please check the file > > permissions."
> >
> > Well, if I could find the file to check the permissions,
> > I would just delete it! Are there permissions for FPSE > > 2002 I can adjust to override this condition? The last > > thing I recall having done that might be related was > > responding to the Server prompt to "Tighten security as > > much as possible." It seemed like a good idea at the > > time....
> >
> > May I keep posting until I get an answer?
> >
> > Stuck,
> >
> > Matthew
> >
> > =}
>
>
```