You need to contact Google Earth on how to create links to .kml file from a web site, etc.

Yes I'm lost. I have a Google Earth .kml file that I would like to put in a web page so that when the user clicks the file's link, Google Earth (assuming the user has it installed) will be launched using the contents of the .kml file.

Is there a way to accomplish this solely from FrontPage (in other words, no scripting or such required)?

Many thanks in advance for anyone who can educate me.
