Ronx,

I 'recalculated hyperlinks' on the site, and that did not fix the problem.

I created a new page directly on the server,

http://www.vinceg.com/vag_search_3.htm,

and the page that was returned had one line at the top:

"[FrontPage Search Component]" but did not have the search form or any components (text box, buttons, etc.)

Could this indicate corrupt or out-of-date FP extensions?

My next step is to ask goDaddy to reinstall FP extensions but I did that before my original post.

Thanks again,

nortbots.htm only appears in five cases:

- 1) You are testing on a disc-based website, including a FrontPage disc-based web that is being browsed through a web-server.
- 2) You are testing on a website that does not have server extensions installed or running.
- 3) The site (or form page) was FTPed from a disc-based web, or published using a FTP address for the destination, or published to a file system destination including a network share or UNC address (like \\machinename\path\webname), or to an address like C:\sitename . Publish must be to a URL of the form <http://example.com>
- 4) The site was correctly published, but the extensions were not installed correctly or were mis-configured. Re-installing the extensions may correct the problem.
- 5) There is a bug associated with FrontPage98 which causes this problem.

Re: FP Search function

In your case, either 4 applies, or it sounds like you FTPed the page.
Try opening the remote web and running Tools->Recalculate Hyperlinks.
Or remove the form and redo it on the server (remote web).

I created a page with a web search form and published it.
<http://www.vinceg.com/vagsearch.htm>

When I enter search terms, I get a 'Page not found'
The page that couldn't be found is:
http://www.vinceg.com/ derived/nortbots.htm.

I've seen info on this problem, and tried editing the code on the server, but no success.

Thanks for any info on this (old?) problem.
