

Re: Pulling the querystring off a 404 redirect

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Internet-Server/microsoft.public.inetserver.asp.general/2004-04/0946.html>

From: Ray at [MVP] (%=sLocation%)

Date: 04/12/04

Date: Mon, 12 Apr 2004 16:18:26 -0400

I'm beginning to suspect that the behavior is different in IIS6 in WS2003. Unfortunately, where I am, the only WS2003 servers don't have IIS on them, and I can't install it. I think I'll have to install 2003 on my intranet server tomorrow. ;]

Ray at work

"Ray at <%=sLocation%> [MVP]" <myfirstname at lane34 dot com> wrote in message news:uAv83oMIEHA.716@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

> I'm sorry. When I was testing here, I was not going to > <http://site/page.asp?x=d>. I was going to something more like:

> <http://site/dir/?kjd=kjdf>

>

> When you go to a non-existent page, you see the 404 url in the browser.

For

> a non-existent directory, the URL does not change. Why? I guess because > this is what someone decided when creating IIS or IE or something! I can't > find any way to carry the querystring over as you've been trying to do...

>

> Ray at work

>

>

>

>

>

> "Scott McNair" <scott.mcnair@sfmco.takethispartout.com> wrote in message > news:Xns94C994DF87B95sfmco@207.46.248.16...

>

> Thanks Ray,

>>

> Unfortunately it still doesn't work, since the querystring is getting > lost when it's getting redirected to the asp page, at least on my box.

>>

> Here's an example of code I was using before, and what it returns for > the page I went to [<http://localhost/blah.asp?abc=123>]:

>>

microsoft.public.inetserver.asp.general: Re: Pulling the querystring off a 404 redirect

> > The error # is <%=Split(Request.ServerVariables("QUERY_STRING"),";")
> > *(0)%>
*
> > The bad page is <%=Split(Request.ServerVariables("QUERY_STRING"),";")
> > *(1)%>
*
> >
> > It returns the following:
> >
> > The error # is 404
> > The bad page is <http://localhost/blah.asp>
> >
> > The address it shows in the address bar is > > [<http://localhost/Errors/Error.asp?404;http://localhost/blah.asp>].
> >
> > I tried running your code, and it returns nothing (since the querystring > > is being stripped on forwarding).
> >
> > Thanks,
> > Scott
>
>