

Re: Internet Server space question?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Internet-Server/microsoft.public.inetserver.iis.ftp/2004-05/0149.html>

From: Paul Lynch (paul.lynch_at_nospam.com)

Date: 05/15/04

Date: Sat, 15 May 2004 15:32:49 +0100

On Fri, 14 May 2004 11:45:05 +0200, "mike" <me2u@write.me> wrote:

>Hi for those who can help me...

>

>I am dutch and try to use my best English. I do not know if thi is the >right group to asked my question. I am bussy with makeing a wensite where >people can upload there stufff and other people could see what they are >sharing pictures documents etc.... etc.... But the thing i wanted to do is >that everyone who makes a account could upload it to the server and they can >only access the server by the website.

>

>My question(s) is.

>

>Everyone who registered at the website can get there own space allocation >for about 10mb they can change delete and upload data to there directory

>

>1. How can i make the above that nobody could change there things or files >without knowing the login id's and passwords.

>2. Where do i have 2 look to configure this. Are there examples on the web >and where

>3. is this a setting in IIS or Windows 2003 Server or just Windows XP

>Proffesional

>

>Thanx in advance

>

>My best regards

>

>

>Mike

>

Mike,

There are a few ways of doing this. You can use native Windows security and file system quotas to lock down your users' directories or you can use 3rd party components such as Aspupload and Asplogin.

microsoft.public.inetserver.iis.ftp: Re: Internet Server space question?

<http://www.aspupload.com/>

<http://www.asplogin.com/>

Regards,

Paul Lynch
MCSE