Hello

I am wanting to setup my ftp server in such a way as that a particular account can only post(upload)but not download. Currently, I have the server set up with individual folders for each user that will retrieve from it on the local lan. Anonymous access is off. It seems that i need to assign the outside upload account(the account that the person uploading is using to access the server from outside the network)read rights to be able to see the individual folders. It seems that with ntfs read rights, they can download as well. Is there a way to allow them to upload but not download from the server. This is iis 5.0. thanks
