Outlook Express does not come with a spell checker. It will use the spell checker from any of several Microsoft 32-bit (Win95/98/NT4 specific) programs. If using Works 4.0, a registry change is required (the spell checker included with Works 7 will NOT work at all):

Microsoft Exchange Cannot Open Custom Dictionary

Reportedly, if you install the free trial version of some Microsoft products such as Front Page or Publisher, and then uninstall them, the spell checker will be left behind. There are also some shareware spell checkers that may work, look here:
