so, that great scam that we were not supposed to answer? we answered because we didn't want to be deleted. Guess what? Now our password was changed, and so was our location information, so now I cannot send myself a password change e-mail (can't sign it to get it) and i cant use my locatin info to reset it (it was changed to who knows what). As this email account is used to communicate with many many others on a project I'm worksing, I can't just change it – especially since it contains all their addresses, which I need!!

I can't even get help cause it wants me to sign in to access it!!!!

How can I get someone in Support to PLEASE help and reset my password so I can go in and change it to salvage my ID?
