My calendar won't work. Every time I try to enter an appointment, it shows the day but not the year and it tells me that the date is in the past. If I try to enter 2008, it reverts to some weird date. The little calendar icon, when you open it, always shows 1970. As it is right now, the calendar is worse than useless. I just upgraded to this version of MS Office, by the way.

If the mini calendar in the lower left corner is showing your year as 1970 then your computer's clock may be set incorrectly.

Quit Entourage and then check Apple menu --> System Preferences... --> Date & Time. Verify your date and time are correct as well as your time zone. If possible enable time syncing to keep your Mac synced.

If the date and time are correct then the next time you launch Entourage should correct the date it shows.

Hope this helps!
