

Re: Please help with Macro

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Mac/microsoft.public.mac.office.excel/2005-11/msg00032.html>

- From: JE McGimpsey <jemcgimpsey@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 02 Nov 2005 11:12:12 -0700
-

In article <1130895895.468988.156400@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, "Pat_Mc_Crotch" <lowrey_jon@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

- > I ran the Office Remove utility, deleted all plists and prefs etc. then
- > re-added Office – made no difference. Strangely, if I logging to the
- > same Mac as a different user – the Macro opens perfectly?
- >
- > I know a bit about Macs but not much about Excel/Macros.

If the macro's running perfectly in a different account, then it's not a problem with the macro.

Do you have any add-ins loaded? Are any other workbooks open when this happens?

You might have a font problem. With all Office apps closed, try turning off all the fonts in your ~/Library:Fonts folder using Font Book.

BTW – My filters initially flagged your post for deletion, based on the alias you used. In general, the gestalt in these groups is to use real (or at least real-looking) names, and there's really no need to be crude, especially when you use a normal-looking email address. You obviously are free to do what you want, especially since you use the alias in other groups, but I'll choose to leave future posts in the delete bin.

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Please help with Macro
◇ From: Pat_Mc_Crotch
- References:
 - ◆ Please help with Macro
◇ From: Pat_Mc_Crotch

Re: Please help with Macro

- Prev by Date: Re: Do I need conditional compilation?
- Next by Date: formatting problem after Tiger upgrade
- Previous by thread: Please help with Macro
- Next by thread: Re: Please help with Macro
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread