

Re: Information from MS and Activation of Word

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Mac/microsoft.public.mac.office.word/2004-03/0021.html>

From: Gene van Troyer (gevantry_at_nirai.ne.jp)

Date: 03/01/04

Date: Mon, 01 Mar 2004 22:46:37 +0900

In article <BC693750.8E27%john@mcghie.name>,
"John McGhie [MVP - Word]" <john@mcghie.name> wrote:

> Passport will show you what it intends to send, I believe. No, it does not > collect anything you do not type in.

I created a P*ssport account to register my copy of Word, but entered only the most basic required info--name and e-mail address. Since you seem to be on a Wintel box, I can't say what happens, but as far as the Mac is concerned, the P*ssport account does not gather any information. Unless you're concerned that spammers might get ahold of your e-mail address, you don't need to worry about security unless you enter info like your credit card numbers.

Gene van Troyer