

Re: automatically zooming windows

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Mac/microsoft.public.mac.office.word/2005-07/msg00003.html>

- From: Beth Rosengard <bethrosengard@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 30 Jun 2005 16:12:49 -0700
-

I saw a workaround that someone posted which may help you. (Now, if I could only remember it.) I think the recommendation was to go into System Preferences> Displays, change the screen resolution to something else and then back to where you had it. This would cause Word to resize the window to where it should be for the other monitor.

Sorry, but this is all I have to offer.

--

Please always reply to the newsgroup!

Beth Rosengard
MacOffice MVP

Mac Word FAQ: <<http://word.mvps.org/MacWordNew/index.htm>>
(If using Safari, hit Refresh once or twice - or use another browser.)
Entourage Help Page: <<http://www.entourage.mvps.org>>

On 6/30/05 1:29 PM, in article
vanderdecker-124F14.16291330062005@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx,
"vanderdecker@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx" <vanderdecker@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

> re: Word 2004
>
> I'm working on a large Word document on both a PowerBook G4 12" and a > PowerMac G5 with a 23" Apple Cinema Display. I keep the document on a > USB flash drive, so it's just a matter of plugging the drive into > whichever system I happen to be using at the time.
>
> If I've been working on the document on the PowerBook and subsequently > open it on the G5, the document window opens to the size it was on the > Powerbook, filling only a small portion of the screen. Clicking the > green maximize button resizes the window so that it fills the screen > from top to bottom, but that means that only the left 1/2 or so of the > document is visible (the zoom setting is set to 200%, due to the size of > the screen), so either way I have to manually resize the window. It

Re: automatically zooming windows

- > seems to zoom to what would be the size of the page if the Zoom
- > setting was 100%, not 200 (if I use the maximize button and then change
- > zoom to 100%, the entire page is visible, though unreadably small).
- >
- > I suppose that when the document is opened on the Powerbook, it's
- > automatically resized to fit the smaller screen. For the desktop system,
- > is there a way to automatically resize the document window when it opens
- > so that it extends the entire height of the screen and all of the text
- > is visible?

- Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: automatically zooming windows

◇ From: vanderdecker

- Prev by Date: Applescript to Open MS Word and execute a Macro
- Next by Date: Re: Positioning Word Table
- Previous by thread: Applescript to Open MS Word and execute a Macro
- Next by thread: Re: automatically zooming windows
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread