This question is brought up, by another question someone else asked on a slightly different subject.

With Office 2008 can you save as an XML format that can be used directly in a DreamWeaver created web page. In other words can you save as True XML (or HTML) that can be opened in DreamWeaver and uploaded to a website?

This would be great to be able to post word document to a website and be able to have them viewed directly in website.

If it's "fixed", don't "break it"!
