

Re: Office 2004, Office 2003 and Office 2007

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Mac/microsoft.public.mac.office/2007-02/msg00295.html>

- From: Daiya Mitchell <daiyaNOSPAM@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 28 Feb 2007 10:06:28 -0800
-

Actually, now I'm totally confused about what you mean.

The screenshots did show up.

You prefer the Word 2004 effect in the second screenshot? Those screenshots look like completely different effects have been applied to me—I'm not sure they prove your case (whatever it is).

Help | Send Feedback goes direct to the MacBU—posts here just vanish into the ether and reach people with no control over the design, they don't really support anything. I hope your Send Feedback was more explicit about what you want to see in future versions.

deeb's wrote:

I did but it seems one cannot attach files or images as the comms methodology is limited to text hence no visualisation.

My post here is (hopefully) a prompt to support feedback sent from Word 2004.

I hope as in really, really hope that no greater wisdom intervenes to reduce the 2004 image effects and equally wish that 2007 variants supported stuff well, ... you know what I mean

Daiya Mitchell wrote:

Office 2007 totally redid the art work—what does Office 2003 look like?
Mac Office 2008 will be borrowing a number of changes from the massive redesign in Office 2007—at this point, I don't think they have said anything about whether graphic effects like that will be included.

Use Help | Send Feedback in Word to let the MacBU know your priorities.

deeb's wrote:

I've attached a couple of screen captures.

one has a fantastic soft edge shadow and the other ... well ...

One is a screen cap from Word 2004 and the other from Word 2007 beta.

Re: Office 2004, Office 2003 and Office 2007

Oh how i wish that ...