

C00D1199 – I have done everything I am supposed to Chris Lanier

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Media/microsoft.public.windowsmedia.player/2005-04/msg02652.html>

---

- From: "Derek B" <Derek\_B@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 18 Apr 2005 13:24:21 -0700
-

I have seen many posts here regarding the 1199 error message. I have read Chris Lanier's advice as well going to his blog for more help. I have had this problem since I rece'd my new Dell with WMP 10 – I had been using 9. I am downloading videos off the web with the extension .wmv, which I have never had trouble playing. I have downloaded videos from several different websites, residing in many different countries, therefore I cannot imagine it would be a codec that they are compressing the video with that is causing the problem. Additionally, none of their websites mention needing a special codec, just WMP 10. I have also been to Microsoft's downloads page and downloaded the available codecs for 7.4 and higher. Ironically, I can watch the videos in a streaming format while on these sites but not once downloaded to my computer. Any help would be much appreciated.

Derek

"rob" wrote:

> how can you solve this problem please advise

.

---

• References:

◆ C00D1199

◇ From: rob

• Prev by Date: Re: error 80070570

• Next by Date: error 80040218

• Previous by thread: C00D1199

• Next by thread: C00D1199

• Index(es):

◆ Date

◆ Thread