No, I asked if you are using add-on toolbars that may be interfering. Google toolbar, Yahoo toolbar are examples. Other malware also exists that install "search helpers". Have you checked that none of that type of add-ons are removed, NOT to reinstall them.

Hi Bob,

I do hit "Apply" and when you open the Browser it opens the new site.
I have on one browser (Internet Explorer), which add-on interface would I need to reinstall if I want to try that part and how?

many thanks

Jay

You are hitting Apply? And the browser opens the new site as Home? All I can figure is you have some add-on interfering. Maybe active tool-bars or the like. You don't happen to be running two browsers and have another one set to be default and pointed at Google?

Hi Bob,

yes and still no change in Outlook, any more pointers.

by the way, thanks for your help

Re: ERROR MESSAGE RE WEB ICON

have you logged off and back on after making the changes?

JP wrote:

That,s the problem, when i change the default page it does not change in Outlook , it still remains as google, like if i change the default to microsoft.com in default page in EI, when i go to the web icon on outlook it comes up with google.com.

"Bob I" wrote:

Then it is working exactly as it should. If you don't want google, CHANGE the default home page.

JP wrote:

www.google.com
