I think voice recognition was introduced with Office XP and that for the time being it's not available with Office 2007. Has something to do with Windows but that's all I know.

Seems like I no longer have handwriting recognition , text to speech or speech recognition when I updated Office XP with 2007, but I have spent the whole day looking to add text to speech to my language bar like the good ol days with no success so what are the possible solutions to get any form of text to speech to work with office 2000/XP?
