

Re: office 2000 icon

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Office/microsoft.public.office.misc/2007-04/msg00419.html>

- From: "JoAnn Paules" <jl_paules@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 9 Apr 2007 21:08:44 -0400
-

Microsoft is real funny (not ha-ha funny) about the use of their icons. From <http://www.microsoft.com/about/legal/permissions/default.aspx>:

Microsoft Product Icons

Microsoft product icons are the thumbnail-size images indicating that a Microsoft product has been installed on your operating system. Use of Microsoft icons is permissible in training manuals or documentation written for and/or about a Microsoft product. In such cases, use of Microsoft icons must be specific to the function of the icon within the Microsoft software, and the icon may not be used as a graphical element or design for your own purposes. Further, icons cannot be modified or altered and must appear as they would within the Microsoft software.

In addition, Microsoft makes certain icons available for copying and reuse by others through the terms of the End-User License Agreement (EULA) of software development tools such as Microsoft Visual Studio and Microsoft Visual Basic. (Find more information on How to Buy Microsoft Developer Products.) If you have already licensed a Microsoft development tool such as Visual Studio, review the redistributable section of the EULA for more information about the Microsoft properties that are made available for redistribution by licensees.

Note: Microsoft does not allow the use of its icons in advertising, in books and other printed matter, on clothing or other promotional items, in online and Internet locations, in software applications, in television programs, in commercials, in movies, or on videotape. Icons are not to be used as "artwork" or design elements.

You should contact Microsoft directly with your request.

JoAnn Paules
Microsoft MVP – Publisher

How to ask a question
<http://support.microsoft.com/kb/555375>

"techdude" <techdude@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:4D218EF1-491A-40CA-9DCA-3BF1D9D90AFD@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Re: office 2000 icon

i need to find the icon that is the logo for microsoft office 2000, it looks like the puzzle pieces fitting together, you may know what i'm talking about... anyways i need the directory to find this icon. if you can email em at gamergangsta@xxxxxxxxxxx i dont check back here often.