

Loose File Association with Limited User Account with Office 2007

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Office/microsoft.public.office.misc/2008-03/msg00897.html>

- From: fubdap <fubdap@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 25 Mar 2008 07:20:01 -0700
-

I installed Enterprise Office 2007 on WnXP sp2. The installation went smoothly. I can see all my previous office data (word, excel, etc). In windows explorer, when I click on word or excel, the appropriate application launches. However, when I switch to my limited user account, I lose the file association. All my word documents are in WordPad. From windows explorer, when I click on them, it launches WordPad. I have tried the `open with` option. It will open with word 2007, but it will not change the file association. When I give the limited user account admin privileges, everything is fine. But when I take away the admin privilege, I am back to square one. I am guessing this will require registry setting, but I do not know how to go about it. Any and all suggestions will be appreciated.

—
Fubdap
.