Hi JoAnn,

I would also like to upgrade the student office 2007. I purchase the program from my online college. I then change to campus school. The student office 2007 is still in the original package the seal is intact. My school will not accept the return. I want to up grade to the Microsoft Office 2007 Ultimatum for future benefits to my career. The question if purchase via a college for school can I upgrade and if so what are the steps to do so?

Office Pro would work but if things go right when I am finished school I will need to be familiar with the Ultimate version so I thought that given the price of the software in Canada that Ultimate was the best choice as it has other programs that Office Pro does not. If I am understanding correctly you are telling me that I can get the Ultimate upgrade version and it will recognize the word, excel, powerpoint, and one note 2007 version and upgrade those as well as provide the full programs that I do not currently have with the Ultimate upgrade.

I'm curious which programs you need for school that aren't in Office Pro.

You can get the upgrade version before Office 2007 recognizes crossgrades (same version, different edition). Previous versions didn't.

I had purchased MS Office Home and Student 2007 thinking it would work well with all my College Courses but I have found that I am missing programs that would be helpful for my training. I have checked through the other Office Suites and found Ultimate to be the best option. My question is, can I buy the upgrade to MS Office Ultimate 2007 instead of the full version and what is the difference between the two?
