

Re: convert to html

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Office/microsoft.public.powerpoint/2005-03/0806.html>

From: Karl (karl.no.spam_at_presentersoft.com)

Date: 03/06/05

Date: Sun, 6 Mar 2005 11:44:40 +0800

Can you provide a link to the html version?

--

Regards,

Karl

PowePoint to DVD-quality video, PowerPoint to web

<http://www.presentersoft.com>

<anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message:

> Hi Karl,

>

> Thanks for the quick response. I'm not sure this applies > in our case. Each slide has an individual sound file > attached. It's very odd. In one file with 58 slides, > the audio plays from slide 1 to 53. The sound then plays > again on slide 58. This is only the html version. All > the files play in the original ppt file. In another > file, the audio plays for the first three files, and then > nothing after that in a 22 slide file. And we have tried > multiple versions of audio files (.wav, mp3, and others) > with the same results. We created the files on different > computers (running the same versions of ppt) with the > same results.

>

> I'm stumped.

>

> mh

>

>

> >-----Original Message-----

> >mh,

> >

> >This should help

> >

> >Sounds won't play across multiple slides on the web

> >

> ><http://www.rdpslides.com/pptfaq/FA000303.htm>

> >

> >

> >Regards,

> >

> >Karl

> >

> >PowePoint to DVD-quality video, PowerPoint to web

> ><http://www.presentersoft.com>

> >

> >"mhaegele" <mhaegele@comcast.net> wrote in message:

microsoft.public.powerpoint: Re: convert to html

> >> Hi Group,
> >>
> >> When I use the "save as web page" function in > PowerPoint
> >> 2002 SP-2, some (not all) of the associated audio files
> >> don't run in the html version. I am a web designer, > and > >> have pretty good idea of how those files should be > >> associated to work when they are uploaded to a server.
> So
> >> I don't think that's my problem. In the problem files, > >> 90% of the audio will play correctly, and the small > >> minority in the same ppt file don't play at all.
> >>
> >> Any suggestions/ideas?
> >>
> >> Thanks,
> >>
> >> mh
> >
> >
> >
> >.
> >