I've done all suggested above. Now, I have another problem. First let me say that because of a virus, in another forum, I used LSPFix, Bazooka, NewNet, HijackThis, SpyBot, Spywareblaster, Stinger, CWS shredder, and Ad-Aware SE Personal to rid my system of unwanted virus. Now I'm having problems with control issues, I can't control what my IE Browser does, e.g. something is correcting my homepage, if I change it, it's automatically changed back to MSN; some pages, e.g. Excite.com, because it's a known Adware and Spyware danger, I can't even access, and I keep getting message that send me to Tools, Internet Options, Privacy or whatever, but still I can't access certain web pages or features. As pertains to Outlook 2003 and Outlook Express, recently I lost my ability to access Hotmail.com. As you know, Outlook Express has a feature that allows one to have their Hotmail downloaded automatically, but for the past two days, and I'm not sure what I did, other than I did go into Spybot, trying to understand it better, and made some changes. The result is, whether it's Spybot, or a combination of Spy and Adwares I've been using to protect my system, that when I run Outlook Express, or even Outlook 2003, I receive this message:

"Unable to poll for new messages on your HTTP server.
Account: 'Hotmail',
Server: <http://services.msn.com/svcs/hotmail/httpmail.asp>
, Protocol: HTTPMail, Server Response: 'Authorization Required', Port: 0, Secure(SSL): No, Error Number: 0x800CCC32." quotation marks are mine.

And that single Error Message is after I deleted my hotmail account on Outlook Express, rebooted, then re-enter the account hoping that re-installation of my account would clear things, but it only changed to one microsoft.public.outlook.general: Can't access Hotmail through Outlook Express or Outlook 2003

Error Message, where prior, Express would run the "Logon Hotmail" popup window showing the Server address and asking for my User Name and Password, as I tried to get past that by re-entering info, Outlook Express would run through and give Error Message for each Synchro item, such as all the folders I had checked, but after deleting the account and re-entering it, I get only one Error Message listed above.

Bottom line, I can't use Outlook Express or Outlook 2003 to access my Hotmail account and the Error Message above, after deleting and re-entering Hotmail, is the only Info I get. I can access Outlook, but because I have Hotmail enter as an account, I get this Error Message. CAN anyone help?

P.S. If possible, please e-mail help.
