

Re: Compacted emails – recoverable?

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Outlook/microsoft.public.outlook.general/2004-12/0288.html>

From: Duane Goertson (goertson_at_dowco.com)

Date: 12/01/04

Date: Tue, 30 Nov 2004 18:30:48 -0800

"Lanwench [MVP – Exchange]"

Thank you for your reply. I've searched for 'archive.pst' without success. The window that I OK'd did say 'compact' rather than 'archive'

I really appreciate your advice re my email address & will be 'munging' it from now on.

Thanks.

Duane

"Lanwench [MVP – Exchange]"

<lanwench@heybuddy.donotsendme.unsolicitedmail.atyahoo.com> wrote in message news:udQYYsu1EHA.1264@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

> Duane Goertson wrote:

>> Hi,

>>

>> I recently started to use Outlook and it asked me each time that I closed it if I wanted to 'compact' my emails. I said no for a couple of weeks. No problem. However, I got tired of it asking each time that it started & decided to click on the box where it asked me to click if I wanted to stop that window from appearing. When I went to close the window I clicked on OK thinking that all that would happen would be that the window would no longer appear.

>>

>> Sadly, it has removed all of my email folders except for the main ones. Is there some way that I can recover the 'compacted' emails.

>>

>> Thank you.

>>

>> Duane

>> carter1950@

>

> I suspect you mean "archive", not compact. Open your archive.pst file and your items should be there.

>

microsoft.public.outlook.general: Re: Compacted emails – recoverable?

- > Note – posting your valid e-mail address in a newsgroup post, or in your
- > news account settings, is a surefire way to get spam and SWEN and other
- > viruses sent to you....see http://www.mailmsg.com/SPAM_munging.htm for
- > help
- > in the future.
- >
- >