One more thing to add from the previous response. When the duplicate emails come in there isn't any number that is associated but I did find out that the same email is copied a number of times then the next is copied and sent a number of times so it's in that kind of order in other words say I sent my friend an email and then Joe sent an email. My friend will get my email back to him 20 times for example then the next set from Joe will come in 20 times and it just keeps going like that. Does that make sense? I answered your other questions in my previous posting. HELP! thanks.
