I have three computers in the office each with outlook 2003 and different email accounts.

suddenly one of them would send or receive emails.

I looked at the email account and tried test email

It stopped and jammed on find incoming mail server (pop3) and lo onto incoming mail server(pop3)

i had to click stop and then shut down of outlook to stop the computer being jammed.

I then took the emails off.

I ran a virus check of the computer and cleaned out a trojan.

I put the emails onto another computer and they worked fine.

i have just tried to put them back but same problem.

Any help or ideas of what i need to do would be most helpful.

Thanks very much
