

Re: Active X

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Outlook/microsoft.public.outlook.interop/2006-01/msg00032.html>

---

- From: "Brian Tillman" <tillman1952@xxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Tue, 31 Jan 2006 10:37:02 -0500
-

Thomas <Thomas@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

Everytime I open an email from a user I get the following error message.

"Your current security settings prohibit running Activex controls on this page. As a result, the page may not display correctly"

I am using outlook 2003 and its only coming from this one user. I have no problem in IE this just happens in outllook. Any Ideas?

By default, Outlook opens mail in the Restricted web zone, which doesn't allow ActiveX controls to run. You can modify your Restricted zone, change Outlook to open mail in another zone, or tell your sender that you don't want ActiveX in the messages.

--

Brian Tillman

.