Thanks for the very quick reply both of you. I asked the person in question to clarify the situation with regard to your questions. Here's the reply:

"I have 2 notes folders – one as a immediate subfolder of my mailbox and the second a subfolder of the first. To the best of my knowledge I haven't moved either since the subfolder was created many months ago; neither have I done an import. Further I wonder how both the folder and subfolder were affected"

"I do not think opening/resizing etc individual items is relevant in this case because all 68 items in the two folders show exactly the same date and time of modification."

So there we have it. User claims to have never meddled with the folder / items. I'm the Admin and I certainly never touched them. Honest. This is the only user in our Organisation that this happens to. User's mailbox is homed on our main Exchange server at our headquarters, but user occasionally works at a local office on our WAN which has a different server, all be it within the same Exchange site – I don't think this would have any effect as her roaming profile is always pointing to our main mail server.

Any further thoughts would be much appreciated.

Thanks again, Dunsyd
