If you're asking where in the registry the connections to PST files are stored:

(Win NT) HKEY_CURRENT_USER\Software\Microsoft\Windows NT\CurrentVersion\Windows Messaging Subsystem\Profiles*<your profile name>*
(Win XP) HKEY_CURRENT_USER\Software\Microsoft\Windows NT\CurrentVersion\Windows Messaging Subsystem\Profiles\Outlook

Within the Outlook folder, there are a bunch of folders with long hexadecimal values for names — those are the ones you need to look in to see if you can find the ghost .PST names. Export that key for safety then delete it. If you delete the keys and that it point to your real .PST file instead of one of the ghosts, it's not the end of the world — your data won't be gone. The worst you would have to do is merge back the key you exported or recreate your Outlook profile.
