LMAO its funny that none of you morons care to learn anything new. are you not curious how email encryption works in general? or how outlook handles it? because none of you know. why cant OUTLOOK view sent encrypted items in the preview pane? why do they need to first be opened? hmmm.... MVP's huh? sure, as long as someone is asking how to open a freakin PST file! soon as you get an intelligent, real world question you all choke and get defensive. its comical

Do you also ask for /help/ regarding the selection of tires by going to a gardening newsgroup? You were the one that became defensive. We were poking fun at YOU for being the boob while you whined like a child that "it don't work the way that I want, waaaaah". If someone is pointing a gun at your head to force you to use Outlook, do you want us to dial 911 for you?
