Yes, unless I miss my guess, this is a known issue. A quick search in the archives of this group for a thread called ActiveSync Kills Wireless will give you the history and what you may be able to do about it. GoogleGroups archives all of the old messages:

Basically, your wireless client program is disconnecting the network connection because of security.

I have an Imate Jamin with WM 5. I am using Activesync ver 4.2. I have Windows XP with SP2 on my laptop.

The problem is that when I activesync my imate with laptop using usb, the laptop internet stops working. As soon as i disconnect my imate, the internet is resumed on the laptop. I am connected to work LAN and use a proxy server. I have tried various options I could find on the net but have not had any success. Can anybody help please?
