

Re: HP Ipaq Possible to remove ClearVue and AvantGo

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/PocketPC/microsoft.public.pocketpc/2005-02/2844.html>

From: Sven ("Sven")

Date: 02/23/05

Date: Tue, 22 Feb 2005 17:42:51 -0700

There is no point in trying to remove built in software. You wouldn't get any memory back doing so. The files are in ROM, and although we now typically get the leftover ROM to use as File Store, you don't get more, if you were to try to get rid of some built in programs. There is no facility to do that in any case.

I am somewhat surprised that installing Acrobat did not re-associate .pdf's with it. I can point you at <http://www.freewareppc.com/utilities/gsfinder.shtml> which does indicate it can do file associations. I can personally recommend Resco File Explorer for the job.

"MarkW" <markwco(removenospam)@comcast.net> wrote in message news:agck11h2586f49alp9dums3dh9k9udbqed@4ax.com...

>I purchased a Ipaq 4700 and it comes with ClearVue PDF and Viewer as > well as AvantGo. I don't use these programs so am wondering to save > memory if I can remove them? They don't appear in the remove section.
>
> As well, I use Adobe Acrobat for PDF's and if for any reason I can't > remove ClearVue PDF is it possible for me to make Adobe Acrobat PDF
> the default viewer?
>
> One last question, I have two programs that do appear in the remove > section that are no longer on the Ipaq. for some reason they are > still listed in the remove section though. Is it possible to remove > them from this section?
>
> Thanks for any help.