

Re: Report of estimated % complete.

Re: Report of estimated % complete.

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Project/microsoft.public.project/2005-04/msg01056.html>

- From: "G rard Ducouret" <gerard.ducouret@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 15 Apr 2005 11:45:46 +0200
-

Hello Dave,

Why not use the Earned Value data : what you want is almost the BCWS, compared with the BCWP and the ACWP.

Have a look in the Help for these fields.

G rard Ducouret

"DaveFusion" <DaveFusion@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> a  crit dans le message de news:B0AC7730-5DEA-4437-B184-A2C6315CBFD8@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> Guys & Gals,

> I have a request to produce a report which shows 'what the % complete should > be if all tasks are running on schedule'.

>

> The only way I could think of doing this would be manually 'update to schedule' all tasks, then Copy/Cut the % complete column, close the plan without saving (or possibly use the undo function), paste the vales into a

> user defined column and then print out.

>

> I'm sure somebody out there has some natty little tool or macro that could do all this for me at the touch of a mouse – if you're that person please let > me know !!!

>

> Thanks

.

- Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: Report of estimated % complete.

- ◇ From: DaveFusion

- References:

- ◆ Report of estimated % complete.

- ◇ From: DaveFusion

Re: Report of estimated % complete.

Re: Report of estimated % complete.

- Prev by Date: show deleted tasks compared to baseline
- Next by Date: Re: show deleted tasks compared to baseline
- Previous by thread: Report of estimated % complete.
- Next by thread: Re: Report of estimated % complete.
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread