I'm afraid I don't :(Your PM will have to resort to his backup – he does have one doesn't he?

It is possible that the server experts might have something up their sleeves, so you might like to try posting on the server newsgroup. Please see FAQ Item: 24. Project Newsgroups. FAQs, companion products and other useful Project information can be seen at this web address:

Hi Mike,
Thank you for responding so quickly. I opened the project and tried to save as a mpd file but I was unable to do that. Since I have Project Server 2007, will I be able to do that? I also tried saving the file as a xml file and then as an mpp but the project manager is still getting the same error. Do you know of another way to fix this? This project already has actual hours in it.

Thanks,

Can you open his file on your PC? If so, you could try the suggestions in FAQ Item: 43. Handling project file corruption and/or bloat.

Hope this helps – please let us know how you get on :-)

Hi,
I have a project manager who is unable to make any changes to his project in Project 2007. When he tries to save his project, he is getting "The file cannot be opened. Check that the file name and path are correct. Check that the file format is recognized by Project. Project files saved in a version earlier than Microsoft Project 98 can't be opened. If your file is from an earlier version, open it in that version, click save as (file menu), and save in MPX format. Open the MPX file in the current version of Project. When you use this method, project data is imported, but formatting is lost."
Does anyone know how to fix this?
Thanks,
