Unfortunately it is very hard to impossible for us to tell you what you are doing wrong, as we aren't sitting at your computer. It can be something as simple as a misspelled word, using upper case vs. lower case, not writing the path to the FTP server correctly, not disabling both the Windows firewall, and/or a third party firewall included in a antivirus suite, or a problem at the server side, or perhaps one of those Microsoft patches that fix one problem only to create another, or, or... You just have to keep looking at the instructions from Yahoo about how to upload your site, and the articles until you spot what you are doing wrong. Have you asked support at Yahoo for help, or looked at their FAQs or other support documents for some insight?

Alternatively, there is usually instructions by the webhost that tell you how to use their control panel to upload your files. Perhaps you can Publish to the Web and direct the HTML output to your computer, and then use the control panel method to upload those files.

Sorry I can't be of more help...

Thanks very much for your reply. I have previously read the article you referenced in your response. Additional information---

I follow the directions exactly using the correct password, domain name, user name as provided by yahoo small business. I have a domain name and bought web hosting through Yahoo.

After following the directions, the error message comes up "cannot connect to the FTP server on the computer names ftp.yogabydina.com"
When I click on the link for more info, it states something about a firewall and FTP proxy settings. I changed the proxy settings to passive and disabled

Re: tried everything– cannot publish to web

the firewall. It still will not work.

I have tried all the troubleshooting and your archived messages on this subject but am still having problems.

If I can provide additional details, I would be glad to.

Thanks very much...

I have tried troubleshooting and reviewed the answers in the discussion group. Either I am just not getting it or there is another issue. Hope someone can help...

I am using Publisher 2003
Trying to publish my website.
I bought the domain and web hosting. All is clear to proceed.
File, Publish to the Web, I enter the domain name and it says Connecting to Web Server. The next message is "cannot find..."

What am I doing wrong?
