Mr. Joe,

Please one post is enough! Someone will answer if they have an answer. And please don't add to thread that has nothing to do with your question.

hi mike, can you assist me with an issue? I am designing a website. For the home page, I need to make a login name and a password for people to enter. Each person will have a different login and password. How do I do this?

Mr. joe thanks you

David,

I read that – and was impressed. I really don't post here to promote a competing product, unless a poster is looking for something that Pub simply cannot do!

BTW, I don't eat the peppers or their juice (except for the Hungarian Hot Wax, which really are barely above a Bell Pepper as far as heat). But I have heard tales about what they can do.

Yeah, yeah, plus I hear that eating peppers helps your memory too. <g>

I did give WP some props in the general newsgroup...

David,

<gloat> WP has an option when uploading or updating a site to include the WP document. It's easy to remember to do it! </gloat>

Yeah, I know about good intentions. In fact I have been getting lazy, and after reading your post I will be backing everything up this weekend. I think a good rule of thumb might be to periodically ask yourself "how much work would it involve to recreate this file if my computer crashed right now? Could I even recreate it?" If its a couple hours, that's one thing. If it is a website file that you perhaps spent weeks on...that is another story.
