Thanks for the help David but I found out that my host does not support front page so I had to do it another way. I just added a page and put my email link on it to sign up for the news letter and basic contact and deleted the sign up form page.

The reason I asked about your webhost was that when I tested your site to see if FrontPage server extensions were installed:
http://www.clrowan.ws/vti\_inf.html If the FPSE were installed and functioning correctly then when you click that link, you would get a confirmation page...you don't. I hoped to find an answer to whether your GDI host provided FPSE support, but couldn't find anything. You need to find out whether your host supports FPSE for web forms. Find out how to install them. You have to have FPSE for Publisher forms to work.

How did you upload your files to your site? Did you use FTP uploading? You must use HTTP uploading along with FPSE if you want the forms to work correctly. You will have to learn how to upload using HTTP and that is probably complicated by the fact you are using IE7. Ask your host for instructions for how to use HTTP uploading with FPSE? This process is different than FTP.

As you are getting that information, read the following references and you should have enough information to get your form to work.

Reference: Publisher web publication forms 101:
<http://msmvps.com/blogs/dbartosik/archive/2006/01/07/80564.aspx>

Reference: Web forms:
<http://office.microsoft.com/en-us/publisher/CH063576891033.aspx>

Reference: How to publish a Publisher web in HTTP:
<http://msmvps.com/blogs/dbartosik/pages/80557.aspx>
These instructions work with 2003 and 2007 with IE6 on XP, but might not work with IE7, and won't work with Vista.

Re: page cannot be displayed after hitting submit on sign up form

Reference: How to trouble-shoot Publisher web upload issues :
<http://msmvps.com/blogs/dbartosik/pages/80560.aspx>

And one final one. Reference: Prepare, publish, and maintain your Publisher Web site:

<http://office.microsoft.com/en-us/publisher/HA100947601033.aspx>

It is written for Pub 2007, but if you are using IE7 instead of IE6, then the directions for using Vista also would apply to Pub 2003. FTP and HTTP uploading has changed with the introduction of IE7 and Vista.

There are no good instructions for how to use HTTP uploading with Vista...and probably IE7. I can talk about this more if you get to this point.

Before you get too overwhelmed with this all, just find out if your host even has FPSE. If they don't then the rest of it is moot.

www.clowan.ws
and you just have to hit the feedback/ mailing list link on the home page on the left to get to the form

I made my own web
site and the last page is
a sign up
form for a
news
letter.

When you
hit the submit botton the
next page is
the page
cannot be
displayed
message.
And also
the form
doesnt go to
my email
like I have
it set
to do.

I
tried to add
a thank you
page with a
link that
takes you
back to my home
page
and put it
after the
sign up
form page
to see if that

works but still
the
same thing happened. I am using
microsoft
publisher
2003. How can I
fix
this?
