

Re: DTS and the Internet

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.dts/2004-08/0623.html>

From: dan (dea_at_deamon.com)

Date: 08/24/04

Date: Tue, 24 Aug 2004 10:39:07 +0100

Darren,

Thank you very much for your reply.

Unfortunately I am new to SQL and DTS thus I would need more guidance.

I tried to find in Books Online HOW to do what you suggested but it's hopeless. For instance the only "add a connection" topic is related to English Query.

I would be very grateful if you could give me more details.

Thank you very much,

Dan

"Darren Green" <darren.green@reply-to-newsgroup-sqldts.com> wrote in message news:FmtGFDWoFlKBFwdq@sqldts.com...

> In message <OseOdhTiEHA.1776@tk2msftngp13.phx.gbl>, dan <dea@deamon.com>

> writes

> >I am using SQL Server 2000. The local computer is XP the remote one is > >W2003.

> >I am the admin of both machines.

> >I want to move data from the local server to the remote server over the > >internet, using DTS.

> >Where and in what format should I declare to DTS the remote server.

> >Thanks,

> >Dan

> >

>

> Simplest way is to just add a connection for the remote server and > supply the IP address for the "name" and a SQL login username and > password.

>

> You can use an alias created through the client network utility if you > want a nice way of specifying a friendly name, network library and port. > Then just use the alias name instead of the IP in your connection.

>

>

> --

> Darren Green (SQL Server MVP)

> DTS - <http://www.sqldts.com>

>

microsoft.public.sqlserver.dts: Re: DTS and the Internet

- > PASS – the definitive, global community for SQL Server professionals
- > <http://www.sqlpass.org>
- >