

Re: executeBatch()

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.jdbcdriver/2004-06/0019.html>

---

From: Steffen Ramlow (s.ramlow_at_gmx.net)

Date: 06/12/04

Date: Sat, 12 Jun 2004 18:03:38 +0200

Joe Weinstein wrote:

>> when I use a PreparedStatement for a executing a batch of inserts, >> the driver executes a single sp_executesql for EACH statement in the >> batch.

>>

>> Is this a limitation of the database or of the driver?

>

> *The question is whether those sp_executesql calls are sent > one-at-a-time with a wait for a DBMS response for each one, or > whether they are sent > all together in one network packet, with whatever parameter calls > needed > in between. The best performance would of course be to send > everything in one packet. If it doesn't, it's because the driver > implemented the syntax of batches without reaching for the best > performance.
> Joe*

One call per statement. Maybe this is necessary to get the results for each statement?

--

Kein Plan überlebt die erste Feindberührung.