

Re: Accessing sorted records via VB

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.programming/2004-05/3912.html>

From: Keith Kratochvil (sqlguy.back2u_at_comcast.net)

Date: 05/18/04

Date: Tue, 18 May 2004 12:31:37 -0500

Why not include an ORDER BY clause as part of your SELECT statement that retrieves the data from the database? This will make sure that the data is ordered when you process it.

Out of curiosity, what are you doing with those 2 million rows? That is a lot of data to return to a client!

--

Keith

"DB" <daveblair(nospam)@adelphia.net> wrote in message news:2B40A335-3556-4416-9CD0-3652E36DB319@

> I have an SQL 2000 table with many millions of records. I would like to process this table seq

>

> Thanks for the help :-)