

Re: Function VS StoredProcedure

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.programming/2004-05/4982.html>

---

From: songie D (songie_at_d.com)

Date: 05/21/04

Date: Sat, 22 May 2004 00:06:20 +0100

You can say that again.

"Aaron Bertrand – MVP" <aaron@TRASHaspfaq.com> wrote in message news:e817M%231PEHA.556@tk2msftngp13.phx.gbl...

> > But best of all a UDF call can be made as part of a SELECT statement,

> where

> > as you can't do this with a SP.

>

> "Best" if you really need it, "worst" if you care about performance (since > typically this will execute the function for every row in the query). ;–)

>

>