

RE: I'm not Trigger happy :-)

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.programming/2004-11/0081.html>

---

From: Mal .mullerjannie_at_hotmail.com> (.mullerjannie_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 11/01/04

Date: Mon, 1 Nov 2004 02:00:02 -0800

Why not use identity column or computer columns ?

"mekim" wrote:

> I am writing my first trigger in the example listed below ...and I'm getting > lost in something...so thx for any assistance
>
> -I am trying to update a field called RecordVersion any time there is an > update to the table
>
> -I realize that the code below is "wrong" ...but I don't see how u can pin > point the row that is being updated from the trigger call
>
> -And I wonder what happens when this trigger fires the same trigger each > time the update is called on "RecordVersion"
>
> Big TIA
>
> ALTER TRIGGER UpdateTrigger
> ON dbo.Table1
> FOR UPDATE
> AS
> UPDATE Table1 SET RecordVersion = RecordVersion + 1
>
>