Morning all

I wish to use replication between two sql servers that are on a Novell Netware Network. At present the SQL server agent account is using sql server login (sa account).The replication wizard tells me i need to change this to a different account and BOL says it needs to be a DOMAIN USER ACCOUNT. My question is what constitutes a DOMAIN USER ACCOUNT on a novell netware network? and how do I set up the account with the correct privileges etc.

Many thanks all

David Hills
