

Re: Scheduled Backup for SQL Database

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.server/2004-10/0117.html>

From: Peter Yeoh (nospam_at_nospam.com)

Date: 10/01/04

Date: Fri, 1 Oct 2004 09:24:14 +0800

>> I have set the properties on the SQL Agent to restart after 10 minutes and the service does restart ok.

>> For some reason the SQL agent under server management does not restart so the job fails.

I do not quite understand the above two (conflicting) statements. I guess the SQL Agent service is restarting, but the job is not running. Is it because the job is not scheduled to run at that time?

--

Peter Yeoh

<http://www.yohz.com>

Need smaller SQL2K backup files? Use MiniSQLBackup Lite, free!

<anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message

news:0b2801c4a6f6$21d26a20$a301280a@phx.gbl...

> Ok have nearly sorted it out. I Hope!

>

> I have managed to get the job to run by doing a database > maintainance job going. This starts automatically and > runs when scheduled. Only problem is when the SQL server > shuts down it stops the agent. When the server restarts > it doesn't restart the agent. I have set the properties on > the SQL Agent to restart after 10 minutes and the service > does restart ok.

>

> For some reason the SQL agent under server management > does not restart so the job fails. As soon as I right > click and say start the job runs ok. So my question is > Why doesn't this restart when the service does?

>

> Chris

> >-----Original Message-----

> >Any error messages for the job? Look in the SQL Server > log too, usually > >found in the \Log subfolder of SQL Server.

> >

> >---

> >Peter Yeoh

> ><http://www.yohz.com>

> >Need smaller SQL2K backup files? Use MiniSQLBackup

> >Lite, free!

> >

> >

microsoft.public.sqlserver.server: Re: Scheduled Backup for SQL Database

```
> ><anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > >news:42e701c4a6d0$7ccaf260$a501280a@phx.gbl...
> >> Yes they are both started by local administrator and > > the > >> local administrator owns the backup job as well
> >> >-----Original Message-----
> >> >Is the SQL Server Agent service startup account the > > same > >> account as the SQL > >> >Server service?
> >> >
> >> >--
> >> >Peter Yeoh
> >> >http://www.yohz.com
> >> >Need smaller SQL2K backup files? Use MiniSQLBackup > >> >Lite, free!
> >> >
> >> >
> >> ><anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > >> >news:45ec01c4a634$9c1441e0$a301280a@phx.gbl...
> >> >> Hi,
> >> >>
> >> >> The backup is just running to another drive on the > > same > >> >> machine. My nightly backup routine goes and copies > > that > >> >> directory to the central server for nightly backup
> >> >> >-----Original Message-----
> >> >> >Hi
> >> >> >
> >> >> >Make sure that the agent is running on a domain > >> account > >> >> that has access to > >> >> >the other server. Are you > >> >> using '\\machinename\sharename\file.bak' (UNC path) > >> >> >as your naming standard for the backup file?
> >> >> >
> >> >> >You can not make a maintenance plan that uses a UNC > >> >> share, so you have to > >> >> >code it manually and setup a job (see BOL for > > BACKUP > >> >> DATABASE).
> >> >> >
> >> >> >Cheers
> >> >> >Mike
> >> >> >
> >> >> >"Chris" wrote:
> >> >> >
> >> >> >> Hi All,
> >> >> >>
> >> >> >> Very new user to SQL admin. I need to backup a > > sql > >> >> >> database, when I run it manually it runs fine and > >> >> creates > >> >> >> a backup without any issue. However when I try to > >> >> >> schedule the job it does not save the schedule or > >> run
> >> >> the > >> >> >> backup.
> >> >> >>
> >> >> >> I am using Windows 2000 Server and SQL2000. Both > > are
```

microsoft.public.sqlserver.server: Re: Scheduled Backup for SQL Database

```
> >> >> >> fully patched and have latest service packs.
> >> >> >>
> >> >> >> Am I doing something wrong or is this a bug. The > SQL > >> >> >> agent is running on the local machine, and the > job > >> >> >> appears in the backup list but always fails. I am > >> >> trying > >> >> >> to write to another data disk on the server with > the > >> >> >> routine to overwrite the file everytime.
> >> >> >>
> >> >> >> Any help would be great
> >> >> >>
> >> >> >.
> >> >> >
> >> >
> >> >
> >> >.
> >> >
> >
> >
> >.
> >
> >
```