I'm going to be taking over control of thses two DELETE statements temporarily. The developers will be commenting them out of our application and I'll be moving them into a SQL job which will run hourly. This will give me a bit more flexibility in trying some of the suggestions that I've garnered here. We've got the space so I'll also expand my log files and tempdb and see if that helps any.

Any other thoughts are still welcomed. Particularly regarding what outside factors would cause this process to go to sleep instead of continuing to work. Thanks.
