

Re: How to move current SQL server from Domain A to Domain B?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.setup/2004-10/0397.html>

From: Che Bliayang (cbliayang_at_csmcorp.net)

Date: 10/29/04

Date: Fri, 29 Oct 2004 16:00:21 -0500

Users are authenticating to SQL using a local SQL login ID/PWD. We are retiring the old domain and as far as windows security, there's only one folder that's shared with the everyone access permission. We are not using SQL mail as well.

With this info, sounds like I should be okay to simply remove this server from the old domain to the new domain?

Thanks for your help!

"Keith Kratochvil" <sqlguy.back2u@comcast.net> wrote in message news:%23U8H2rcvEHA.200@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl...

> How do you authenticate users? SQL Server security? Windows Security?

> Are

> you removing the old domain? If you are using Windows security and are > removing the domain you will have to recreate your security setup.

>

> Are you using SQLMail? This may stop working until you reconfigure the profile.

>

> Other than that, I cannot think of any major "gotchas."

>

> Someone else might jump in with one that might cause me to slap my head > and

> say "oh yeah" but those are probably the biggies.

>

> --

> Keith

>

>

> "Che Bliayang" <cbliayang@csmcorp.net> wrote in message

> news:OrmXGQcvEHA.2540@TK2MSFTNGP09.phx.gbl...

>> What else will I be looking at as well besides the sql service account?

>>

>> "Keith Kratochvil" <sqlguy.back2u@comcast.net> wrote in message

microsoft.public.sqlserver.setup: Re: How to move current SQL server from Domain A to Domain B?

>> news:eCZGWWRvEHA.2520@TK2MSFTNGP15.phx.gbl...

>> > I assume that you are probably running the SQL Server services using a >> > domain account. This will be your first hurdle on the machine that is >> > changing domains.

>> >

>> > --

>> > Keith

>> >

>> >

>> > "Che Bliayang" <cbliayang@csmcorp.net> wrote in message

>> > news:%23fkwPCRvEHA.1204@TK2MSFTNGP10.phx.gbl...

>> >> We are currently consolidating our 2 domains into one. What risk >> > assessment

>> >> should I be looking for regarding moving the SQL server to the new >> >> Domain?

>> >> Will anything break?

>> >>

>> >>

>> >

>>

>>

>