

RE: Analysis Services – Cannot connect to repository

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/SQL-Server/microsoft.public.sqlserver.setup/2005-05/msg00140.html>

- From: "Diane" <Diane@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 11 May 2005 15:14:02 -0700
-

I edited the repository connection string & removed the Initial Catalog which referred to that database, BUT now I get the following error when trying to connect:

Invalid object name "OlapObjects"

???

"Diane" wrote:

- > This has a bit to do with Project server – but I think you guys can help me.
- > I was trying to install configure Project Server – to no avail. One of the
- > steps of the install is to migrate the repository for SQL Server to one named
- > Analysis Services Repository. Anyway. After failing the Project Server
- > install. I decided to start fresh – removed Analysis Services, SQL & Project
- > Server (and the Analysis Services Repository"
- >
- > I re-installed SQL Server. Put on SP3a. I re-installed Analysis Server.
- > SP3a.
- >
- > Now, when trying to test the connectivity of Analysis Services by clicking
- > on the Server name, I get the following message:
- >
- > Cannot connect to the repository.
- >
- > Analysis Server: SERVERNAME
- >
- > Error:
- > Cannot open database requested in login. "Anlysis Services Repository".
- > Login failed.
- >
- > Where is this database name set-up??? I just want it to go back to the
- > default database name that comes vanilla out of the box?? Please help – this
- > is turning into a disaster for me.
- >
- > Thank you.
- > Regards,

> Diane

.

• References:

- ◆ Analysis Services – Cannot connect to repository

◇ From: Diane

- Prev by Date: Re: SP4 Installation Problem on Win2000/SQL Enterprise Edit.
- Next by Date: SQL 2000 coexist with SQL 2005 on same machine
- Previous by thread: Analysis Services – Cannot connect to repository
- Next by thread: SQL 2000 coexist with SQL 2005 on same machine
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread