All,

I've created a site from a custom site template in SharePoint 2.0. I've gone through the process of creating a content index and scope on this site. Although the index contains several documents, no search results are found when I use this scope, no matter what I'm searching for.

Now, I can create a regular team site through the wizard, go through the exact same process of creating a content index and scope and the searching works fine. The only difference is that one site is created from a custom template.

I'm pulling my hair out over this. Is there some special setting I'm not seeing?
