

Re: Bitwise operating...is that the term?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VB/microsoft.public.vb.general.discussion/2005-08/msg00295.html>

- From: "Michael C" <mculley@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 3 Aug 2005 16:32:14 +1000
-

"YYZ" <matt@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1123034811.225826.160030@xx>
> Oh -- the reason it needs the X and Y coords of the mouse is because it > needs to find the window handle of the window under the mouse to send > the scroll message -- pthWnd = WindowFromPointXY(XPos, YPos)
>
> Thanks for any advice anyone has out there.

You could just copymemory it over to an integer, then you avoid any of the VB conversions.

Michael

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Bitwise operating...is that the term?
◇ From: YYZ
- References:
 - ◆ Re: Bitwise operating...is that the term?
◇ From: YYZ
- Prev by Date: Re: Visual Basic 4 to Visual Basic .Net
- Next by Date: Re: Menu - hiding and showing selected menu items using code
- Previous by thread: Re: Bitwise operating...is that the term?
- Next by thread: Re: Bitwise operating...is that the term?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread